INTER-UNIVERSITY COOPERATION

AGREEMENT 2012-2016

EURO-MEDITERRANEAN UNIVERSITIES

CONSORTIUM TETHYS

TITLE I – PARTNER UNIVERSITIES

The signatory universities listed here under (Annexes in attachment):

have agreed as follows:

PREAMBLE

Within the framework of the Barcelona Conference in 1995, the fifteen member states of the European Union and the twelve Mediterranean third countries have laid the foundations of a new cooperation policy, notably by creating a social, cultural, and human partnership.

“The traditions of culture and civilization on both sides of the Mediterranean, the dialogue and the human, scientific, and technological exchanges between these cultures are key to bringing their peoples closer, enhancing mutual understanding and bettering perception of each other”.

The idea of creating a tool to implement this inter-national and inter-university cooperation took shape as a study aimed at identifying the different countries’ needs and at developing ad hoc methodologies. The community of interests revealed the necessity of a multilateral regional cooperation (south-north, north-south and south-south) - and no longer bilateral – the main goal is the Construction of Euro-Mediterranean Area of Higher Education, Research and Innovation.

Three main objectives have been set:

- 1- To implement international and common high-level training programs in domains considered priority for the Mediterranean area. Mainly concerned among these, within the scope of the Bologna Process: Bachelor’s (“Licence”, in French), Master’s curricula and Doctorates, notably to improve the readability of degrees and promote student and teacher mobility.
- 2- To develop joint research programs by creating laboratory networks and fostering researcher mobility within Doctorate programs (thesis under joint supervision), following the Bachelor and Master. The medium-term perspective is to harmonize knowledge and competence levels among partner countries’ future managers and thus contribute to strengthening the political, social and economic stability of the Euro-Mediterranean area.
- 3- To help upgrade the governance of universities, particularly in the domain of inter-university cooperation.

This interuniversity cooperation agreement follows the 2 previous ones implemented since January 2000.
